

Response Activities

to the book

Personal Space Camp

A Social Skills story
by Julia Cook

Created by Lisa Parnello

©2012

Teacherlisasclass.blogspot.com

These questions and activities accompany the story:

Personal Space Camp
by Julia Cook

Check your local library for a copy of this fun story.

These activities have been created by

teacherlisasclass.blogspot.com
teacherlisasclass@gmail.com

Personal Space Matching Game

- Students cut out the squares and sort them by “good choice” or “bad choice.” Read each card and have your child choose which it is.
- These cards can also be printed on cardstock and laminated for a social skills game that can be used repeatedly for students who continue to struggle with the concept.

Good Choice

Bad Choice

Good Choice

Bad Choice

Touching others
during carpet time

Staying out of other people's comfort bubble

Keeping my body
to myself

Grabbing

Pushing

Walking around people who are in my path

Putting my nose
on people

Licking people

Saying "excuse me"
when I want
someone to move

Squeezing a ~~stu~~~~f~~~~fed~~
animal

Kicking others

Asking be~~fore~~ giving
a ~~friend~~ a hug

Sitting where I'm not tempted to touch others

Keeping my hands
to myself in line

Climbing on people

Sitting near a ~~friend~~, but not too close

Name:

Date:

Personal Space Activity

Ask your child the following questions.

You can help your child with writing their answers.

Have your child draw a picture of a good choice on the second page.

Who is the main character in this story? _____

Where is the setting? _____

List three bad choices in the story:

- _____
- _____
- _____

What is personal space?

How do Louis's classmates feel when he gets in their personal space?

How did Rusty break the comfort bubble when they were getting in line?

Why did the teacher use her cranky voice?

Physical Education

Name:

Date:

Give three good choices you could do to respect personal space:

- _____
- _____
- _____

Draw a picture of a good personal space choice you can make.

